

JOB POSTING

THE BUCKEYE INSTITUTE

The Buckeye Institute is seeking to hire a regular full-time economist to work in-person and onsite in Columbus, Ohio.

The economist will engage in significant research, modeling, policy-related writing, and education. The economist reports to the Economic Research Center's executive director and will collaborate with Buckeye staff in developing free-market solutions for a diverse range of public policy issues, including but not limited to fiscal (tax and budget), energy, regulatory, education, and health care policy.

Job Duties:

- Evaluate the potential economic impact of public policy proposals at the state level, examples include changes in tax law and energy prices;
- Write original, rigorously-researched, academic quality papers for publication;
- Effectively communicate—verbally and in writing—the effects of policy changes, including testifying before state legislatures to support Buckeye's research (traveling as needed) and conducting media interviews;
- Explain complex statistical and economic issues to both a lay audience and legislators;
- Develop and promote free-market policy ideas; and
- Work with the Economic Research Center's executive director to achieve all of Buckeye's objectives.

Requirements:

- Proficiency in a statistical programming language (STATA, R, and MATLAB preferred);
- Ph.D. in economics (or in a similar field with an understanding of econometrics);
- Initiative to start and complete work projects thoroughly and on-time;
- Ability to work independently and with a team;
- Demonstrated commitment to free-market principles;
- Excellent communication skills (in writing and public speaking);
- Ability to conduct quantitative research; and
- Previous relevant academic research or related work experience.

Application Instructions:

Submit a cover letter, résumé or C.V., salary requirements, a writing sample of not more than 10 pages, and two to three references of people who have overseen your past professional work or academic research to Manager@BuckeyeInstitute.org.

About The Buckeye Institute

Founded in 1989, The Buckeye Institute is an independent research and educational institution—a think tank—whose mission is to advance free-market public policy in the states.

The staff at Buckeye accomplish the organization’s mission by performing timely and reliable research on key issues, compiling and synthesizing data, formulating sound free-market policies, and promoting those solutions for implementation in Ohio and replication in states across the country.

The Buckeye Institute is located directly across the street from the Ohio Statehouse on Capitol Square in Columbus, where it assists legislative and executive branch policymakers by providing ideas, research, and data to enable the lawmakers’ effectiveness in advocating free-market public policy solutions.

The Buckeye Institute is a nonpartisan, nonprofit, and tax-exempt organization, as defined by section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue code. As such, it relies on support from individuals, corporations, and foundations that share a commitment to individual liberty, free enterprise, personal responsibility, and limited government. The Buckeye Institute does not seek or accept government funding.
